

Coaching with author and editor Karen Stiller

One time call: $200

Perfect when you would like to talk through options, explore strategies, understand the different paths to publication and create a writing plan together. Or, whatever you want to explore in our up to 90 minutes together! I'm here to talk, listen and weigh in.

Six weeks of good work together: $1500

Meeting weekly for one hour zoom sessions, we will drill down on areas where you want to improve as a writer. I will help you plan or move ahead on your writing project and offer you a fresh perspective to help you deepen or widen your work.

I will also be available to you between our appointments with weekly emails or texts to check in, answer quick questions and provide you with resource material to keep you moving. You can expect podcasts to listen to, suggested articles and books to read, and videos to watch to help guide our time together.

During our time together, I will interact with your work and be a visitor to your pages. You will receive general comments, ideas on how to solve writing challenges in your project and tons of input to help you grow as a writer.

A big sweep of 12 weeks: $2750

We can do a lot in three months. Meeting weekly by zoom for up to 90 minutes, we will dive deep into a writing strategy to help you meet your goals and build the writing life you want.

If you have a project on the go, we will establish deadlines for your work. I will read and interact with a reasonable amount of your pages (we will decide that together) and offer you general impressions and guidance. I will help you zero in on areas of potential growth. We will discuss your work together and help you grow as a writer.

I will also be available via emails or texts to check in, answer questions and provide you with resource material to keep you moving. You can expect podcasts to listen to, articles and suggested books to read, videos to watch or maybe even free courses to take together that we will then discuss together and introduce into your writing life.

The 12-week package may also include one zoom workshopping experience with other writers – depending on availability – who also have projects on the go. This will be a bonus workshopping experience giving you fresh eyes on your work and modelling how to do workshopping to maximum benefit for everyone. Learning to workshop writing is a must-have tool in the writer life. You will hate/love it!

One thing you should know: Editing is different from coaching. Inevitably, we will stray over the line. Sometimes it will feel like editing. But editing is a much more comprehensive and detailed dive into your work. We might decide to work together in that way.

And what you can do next: Reach out to me via my website contact form or email me directly at karen.stiller@sympatico.ca and let's explore the possibilities. I only work with a few clients at a time so I can give that small group my full attention. I'm looking forward to exploring the options together.